Days are getting longer, which is good news to all humankind in civilized portions of this globe. It means that, though winter does its worst, its tenure will soon be definitely on the decline.

JAPANESE BUNCOMBE

The Osaka Mainichi devotes a special edition to "The China Emergency." Many things are said in this edition. One of them is that Japan hopes that China "will finally realize her mistake in challenging Japan." Another is that China has stubbornly rejected the "conciliatory attitude of Japan."

It has been said that if Japan would withdraw from China the world would soon learn just how far the Chinese would go in its challenge to the Mikado. Clashes have occurred, not because Chinese are invading the Nipponese realm, but because Japanese have invaded China. The edition of the Mainichi is so much bun-

Croft, Butler county, forgery, 3 years from August 15, 1936; Roy Bryan, Vernon county, burglary, 3 years from March 4, 1937; and Fred Jones, Nodaway county, forgery, 2 years from August 12, 1937. POULTRY OUTLOOK FOUND FAVORABLE Government Bureau Predicts Higher Egg Prices.

Supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service. Somewhat higher prices of eggs next year as compared with this year are foreseen by the bureau of agricultural economics in a review. of the poultry and egg situation. This conclusion is drawn from the smaller number of layers which will be in farm flocks next year and the expectation that the rate of egg production will be somewhat lower.

The larger supply of feed this year is expected to have a material effect on the poultry situation. The total production of the four feed grains, corn, oats, barley, and grain sorghum, this fall will be the largest since 1932. And the wheat supply for poultry feeding will be larger than in recent years. With the number of grain-eating animals. at a low point, there will be unusually ample supplies of grain for poultry, especially in some of the Corn Belt states. In other words, the bureau says, the feed situation next spring will be much more favorable to producers than in 1937. Largely as a result of the ample feed supply, it is expected that the hatch of chicks next spring will be larger than the small hatch this year. This leads to the conclusion that while poultry supplies will be smaller in the first half, they will be larger in the last half of 1938 than in the corresponding periods of 1937. Higher prices of chickens are looked for in early 1938, whereas lower prices may be the rule a year from now. Stocks of eggs in cold storage which will affect egg prices next year are likely to be much less than they were in 1937, because of smaller marketings. While the production of fall and winter broilers this year is expected to be heavy, the price is not likely to be depressed correspondingly because the general meat supply is smaller. Turkey production this year is estimated at 10 per cent less than it was in 1936. With prices expected to be higher than they were last year and possibly higher than in 1935, the hatch and production of turkeys in 1938 probably will be increased over this year.

COMMISSIONER GRIFFITH | tion, a fact which athletes connot SETS STANDARDS FOR afford to overlook. ATHLETICS

With the football season in full swing Commissioner John L. Griffith's responsibilities are greatly increased. As Mid-West Athletic Commissioner, a job he has held since 1922, it is his duty to superintend all football activities.

He investigates charges of professionalism, defends sports activities in the schools, checks rumors and checks eligibility rules. It is due in considerable measure to the efforts of Commissioner Griffith that football is today the popular sport that it is and also that it is self-supporting. Major Griffith has attempted to make football a safe, sane sport and has greatly reduced the number of accidents to players.

Commissioner Griffith, ever interested in preserving good health and in setting good standards, chooses the breakfast of Great Americans, Quaker Oats.
